UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA, Nov. 28.—
The Virginia football delegation, including the members of the 'Varsity eleven and substitutes, left here at 4:35 this afternoon over the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway for Richmond, where at Broad-Street Park to-morrow afternoon will occurr the Park to-morrow afternoon will occurr th great game with the gridiron warriors from Sewanee. The players, more than thirty strong, were accompanied by Coaches Hoxton and Cocke and Physical Director Lambeth, and appeared to be in good condition, with the exception of Haskell, right guard, and Bride, right end. The former has not appeared at practice since the game with Carolina, owing to an injury to his lip. It is owing to an injury to his hip. It is thought, however, that he will be in to-morrow's game. Bride, who was sick when he entered the game in Norfolk last Saturday, has not yet entirely recovered, and after yesterdny's hard practice he came near colapsing before he could reach the gymnasium. He may not enter to-morrow's game at all. In case he does not, Harris will have charge of left wing. The practice yesterday—the last before the Sewanee game, and the last of the season of 1900—was pretty stiff. After the usual drill in signals, the regulars were lined up against the scrubs and the engagement lasted until nearly dark. Three touchdowns were scored by the 'Varsity and one by the second eleven, Williams, sub end, getting the ball on a fumble and sprinting thirty-five yards across the goal line.

At the close of the afternoon's work the members of the 'Varsily team gathered and gave three hearty cheers for the scrub eleven. The latter, who had by this time nearly reached the gymnasium, turned back and gave the yell, with three cheers for the 'Varsity. This exchange of compliments was a fitting close to the senson's practice work.

Never before at this institution has a set of substitutes worked with more willingness and shown better college spirit than those of the present session. Ever since the opening of the season these men have appeared regularly on the campus day after day and, even after all chances to make the 'Varsity had fled, have stood all sorts of hammering and hard knocks at the hands of the regulars. All college applauds their work in developing the 'Varsity and has nothing but praise for them.

It is estimated that fully three hundred students will be on the train, which makes only one stop, and that at Gordonsville. Blacksburg. The game will be called at 2:30 P. M. at Athletic Park, and no doubt will be witnessed by a large crowd.

The prestige of the two teams is such as to attract widespread interest. The Lexington boys will enter the contest with splendid record—the best for this season in the State, if not in the South. Of the five games played this senson, their goal line has been crossed in but one game, and that by the strong team from Georgetown University.

Under the able coaching of Sam Walker, of Pennsylvania University, the team is in fine condition and will no doubt roll up a big score against the boys from up a big score against the boys from Blacksburg. The contest between the two schools was scheduled to be played at Norfolk on Thanksgiving, but the Polytechnic Institute afterwards refused to play anywhere but at Roanoke.
